JAMES E. MATHEWS, RRO

Project Role: Project Manager / Quality Control Inspector

James Mathews has performed in the roofing industry for twenty-nine (29) years. His experience began as a union apprentice at DuPont and then continued onto mechanic, project foreman, service department manager and sheet metal department supervisor for various roofing companies in Washington DC, and the Commonwealth of Virginia. He has installed, repaired, and supervised the installation of many types of low and steep slope roofing systems and has been involved with new construction, roof maintenance and roof system replacements on residential and commercial roofing systems. He received his RRO in 2020.

Mr. Mathews has conducted quality control roof inspection services for RCS and other inspection firms for over six (6) years. He has specialized in quality control roof inspection services for RCS on several state sector projects in the Commonwealth of Virginia such as Fort Monroe, VDOT, Department of Corrections, and several state universities. His thorough knowledge of roofing and sheet metal system application requirements and proven ability to assist in coordination of large complex projects will prove beneficial for the overall quality of any roofing project.
